

Role Description

Clinical Team Leader

Cluster	Health
Agency	NSW Ambulance
Division/Branch/Unit	Clinical Operations
Role number	Various
Classification/Grade/Band	Team Leader
Role Type	Clinical
Date of Approval	TBC
Agency Website	www.ambulance.nsw.gov.au

Primary purpose of the role

Clinical Team Leaders are the NSW Ambulance first line of management for operational frontline staff.

The Clinical Team Leader provides clinical leadership, contributes to quality improvement and oversees the welfare of local teams, which may include clinical volunteers, on a day-to-day basis. They are responsible for ensuring the delivery of out-of-hospital healthcare through clinical and operational practice, rescue and patient transport services.

They play a pivotal role in fostering a culture of safety, quality, and continuous improvement within their teams. Clinical Team Leaders are responsible for ensuring that paramedics under their supervision meet the expectations of managers, regulatory bodies, and patients.

Where the Clinical Team Leader is the senior position at a station, the Clinical Team Leader will be the Officer in Charge.

Key Accountabilities

- Lead a culture of clinical excellence through the leadership and supervision of clinicians, ensuring the delivery of appropriate educational or capability enhancement solutions to deliver quality, safe and integrated healthcare.
- Respond to incidents as part of a dual-crewed ambulance or rapid responder and provide support and supervision to incidents, including through the implementation of incident management structures at scenes, as dispatched by the Control Centre or as delegated by a Group Manager.
- Exercise approved delegations concerning financial, human and physical resources relating to their designated location, to ensure the delivery of high-quality mobile health services to the community.
- Support the provision of reliable healthcare including through the evaluation of data to identify local trends or practices, initiation and participation in quality improvement initiatives, role-modelling reflective practice and continuous learning, and engaging in multidisciplinary teams with other health professionals and organisations to achieve health outcomes.

- Assume or share responsibility for the professional development and performance management of staff, including through the facilitation of opportunities for capability improvement and upskilling, and early identification and effective management of issues relating to work performance, consumer feedback and staff grievances.
- Ensure compliance for self and for teams for all NSW credentialling requirements including clinical and leadership credentialling, and registration requirements under the Paramedicine Board of Australia.
- Take a lead role in establishing and upholding a positive workplace culture of staff and patient safety, clinical excellence, psychological safety, fairness and equity, and an environment free of bullying and harassment; through modelling appropriate behaviours and challenging inappropriate workplace conduct
- Ensure compliance with all applicable legislation, NSW Ambulance policies, procedures and standards, including those relating to work health and safety, workers compensation and health and wellbeing.

Key Challenges

The key challenges for Clinical Team Leaders include upholding professional standards within their team in the delivery of high-quality mobile health services and implementing and fostering a high-performing team-based work environment that minimises industrial disputation, workplace grievances and community complaints.

Healthcare Safety and Quality Capabilities

The Healthcare Safety and Quality Capabilities complement the NSW Public Sector Capability Framework. They are an occupation-specific set for NSW Health employees that describe the capabilities and associated behaviours of health service workers required to prevent patient harm, ensure reliability and improve quality of outcomes. The behavioural indicators are a series of statements that illustrate the knowledge, skills and associated behaviours that an employee should ideally demonstrate. Behavioural indicators are organised into level descriptors. The five descriptors range from 'foundational' to 'highly advanced', reflecting a progressive increase in complexity and skill, but not necessarily hierarchy. Level descriptors are mapped to role type depending on the complexity and skill required for the role.
