

Drug and Alcohol Testing at Maranatha House

Dear Member,

A number of HSU members have approached us with respect to management's proposal to require employees to undertake drug and alcohol testing. Outrageously, management wanted staff to pay for this testing themselves.

The HSU took up the fight and advised management that its proposal was not only unfair, but possibly illegal. It did not even comply with Maranatha House's own policy with respect to drug and alcohol testing.

The HSU secured a big win which led to the CEO agreeing that that the letters requiring drug and alcohol testing will be withdrawn.

You do not need to undertake any drug and alcohol testing at your own expense.

It's crucial to stick together and support each other. Those who are not members of the HSU are encouraged to join now. It's only through collective action that we can hold management to account. Join at www.hsu.asn.au or by calling your Union on 1300 478 679.

In unity,

Gerard Hayes
Secretary, HSU NSW/ACT/QLD
